yeah!, open up,
line up

The office building planned by Studio Lucenses was designed with the aim of creating functional, aesthetically clear, bright rooms: glass partition walls create a separate sphere while allowing views to the outside and inside.

Workstations with the rotating yeah! office chair and visitor chairs from the same family.

When the furnishing were being selected, great value was place on simple and clear forms as well as on ergonomic quality and a functional aesthetic. A convincing answer was provided by the Sedus families open up, yeah! as well as by line up for the rows of chairs in the conference room. Photos: © Sedus
