The 1st phase of construction has been completed. A special feature of the new building is the media facade, which permanently displays various artistic motifs. All photos: © Christian Richters (unless indicated otherwise).

On behalf of the PSD Bank, Andreas Heupel has built a new head office with a striking aesthetic note in the Hafenplatz in Münster. In an attractive location, the building, which is covered in rust-brown panels and reflects light in different ways depending on the position of the sun, provides a high quality workplace. An effective ground plan and consistent detailed planning by the architect with many carefully crafted solutions characterise the bank building. One special feature is an LED facade which displays tasteful media art without impairing city traffic.

The inside of the bank is dominated by warm materials, mainly consisting of surfaces made of American walnut. Panels, door leaves, parquet floor, stairwell, special furniture and, in some places, invitation desks are all matched to each other.

On the management board floor, the silent rush office swivel chair was used. A green colour matching the bank's logo was selected for the covers.
